The foregoing is a daily schedule (Sunday's excepted) and connects closely with the Richmond Trains to and from Richmond. Also with the Trains of the South Side Road as heretofore. Passengers from Richmond leave at 4 30, A. M., and breakfast at Petersburg.

 To go into effect from and after this day, Saturday, November 12th, 1859.

WILLIAM MAHONE,

Engineer and Superintendent.

The N. & P. R. R., now reaching from the water front of Norfolk Harbor to Petersburg, is 80 miles long. The road has been constructed in the most durable manner, and has now been in operation for nearly two years. The business along the margin of the road has been greatly developed in this time, and the signs of prosperity and of enterprise begin to reflect their influence upon the revenue of the work, in a sensible degree. The road is of the same gauge as the other roads of the South side system of Virginia, and has Western connections by rail of more than 3000 miles. It now constitutes one of the links in the great South Western route which has been fully established between the Western cities and the immense area of country legitimately tributary to its connections. This through freight route is now in operation, and bids fair to succeed beyond the highest expectations of its most sanguine friends. It opens up to Norfolk city, by means of these Western connections, a field for her enterprise, which, if they are properly embraced, would insure her rapid ascendancy among the emporiums of America.
